

www.london.ca

Home > City Hall > Newsroom

The Corporation of The City of London December 3, 2007

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CP Holiday Train to close Richmond Street

The CP Holiday Train will be making its way to London this Wednesday, December 5. While it's in town, Richmond Street between Pall Mall and Piccadilly will be closed to traffic. The closure will be in effect from 9:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

The CP Holiday Train, known as the 'magical train of lights' is stopping in London to raise awareness, money and food for the London & Area Food Bank. It's due to stop at the CP tracks on Richmond Street between Pall Mall and Piccadilly at 9:30 p.m.

When the train stops, a stage will open up facing southbound and Londoners will be treated to a performance from three exceptional Canadian artists. Juno award-winner Colin Linden, critically acclaimed Celtic performers Ennis, and Canadian Country Music Hall of Fame member Tracey Brown will take to the stage.

A tradition every year at this time, this is the first year London has been treated to the Holiday Train at the Richmond Street location. Everyone is invited to come out Wednesday night, and bring non-perishable food donations for the London & Area Food Bank.

For more information about the Holiday Train, please visit www.cpr.ca.

